Count on me, Singapore

Dedicated to a family friend Mr Teo, this orchestration of "Count of Me Singapore" reveals the nostalgia of the composer's youthful days growing up in Singapore. The built-in resonance, overlapping textures and poetic orchestration asks for a subtlety in all facets of performance especially of that of clarity of tone and expressive phrasing. A quasi-poem accompanies this personal orchestration of the National Day tune.

Count the colours
the flag that honours us almost patriotic as Mondrian might depict

Count the textures I paint
On lines that are faint Me, esoteric?
some, wildly critic

Counter-melodious answer serves to deter
or meaningfully suffer

a potpourri of laughter Count the turning points
On crossroads of life
Meandering over
Singapore river

Country like none other
One to truly savour
Meant to be a world-leader
Singapore would never falter

This arrangement of “Count on me, Singapore” was commissioned by the Singapore Wind Symphony, with support from the National Arts Council (Singapore), and premiered on 21st July 2012 at the Esplanade Concert Hall.

About the Arranger

Hailed by The Straits Times as “a breath of fresh air on our musical landscape”, Chen ZhangYi represents a rising generation of Singaporean composers. Zhangyi had collaborated with ensembles such as with the London Symphony Orchestra, Tokyo Philharmonic Orchestra, Baltimore Symphony Orchestra, and most frequently with Singapore-based string orchestra re: mix.

With the Tokyo Philharmonic Orchestra, Zhangyi conducted the Japan premiere of his orchestral work RAIN TREE at the Asian Music Festival in July 2011. In the summer of 2013, he would conduct his opera commissioned by the Singapore Lyric Opera.

An avid violinist, Zhangyi performs with the Charm City Baroque and had appeared as soloist with the Baltimore Baroque Band. Apart from composing and premiering his own works, Zhangyi enjoys performing and championing new works of his contemporaries. He read music at the National University of Singapore and Peabody Institute.
